

Parent Meetings

Parent meetings should be considered any time an event threatens to decrease trust families have in the school. List some of the kinds of events you now realize could disrupt trust.

- 1)
- 2)
- 3)
- 4)
- 5)

Often administrators are reluctant to hold parent meetings. What are some strategies for helping administrators considering holding a parent meeting?

Sometimes educators judge the success of a parent meeting on attendance. Why is the meeting valuable even if there are fewer attendees than might have been desired?

Often leaders think that meetings should only be held if there are facts to state. That may be one part of the agenda, but only a small part. What are the other critical areas of focus?